Problem

Inefficient communication between nursing homes and hospitals leads to delays in the diagnosis and treatment of infections.

Solution

Provide nurses with read-only access to the hospital's electronic health record system so they can view the results of culture tests and other relevant clinical information in real time.

Benefits

Improved communication: Nurses access the results of culture tests and other relevant clinical information in real-time.

Reduced risk of delays: Nurses no longer have to wait for the hospital to call them with the results of culture tests.

Improved patient care: Nurses use the information in the EHR to make better-informed decisions about patient care.
